Service Children's Network

Service Children's Network members are passionate about supporting children and young people from serving, reservist and veteran families across North Yorkshire so that they can realise their true potential and thrive.

Established by Angela Campbell and Jess Greenhalgh, Service Children's Champions for North Yorkshire, the aim of the Network is to engage and support stakeholders in improving outcomes and educational experiences for children and to identify key issues which create barriers to learning, and work collaboratively to overcome them.

The views and unique contributions of young people from Armed Forces families will be sought and valued. If you would like to join our Network please email Jess or Angela.

What about the Service Child...

- who has attended 7 primary schools by the end of Year 6?
- whose serving parent is away working Monday to Friday?
- who has moved school at the start of Year 10 and the GCSEs available at their new school do not fit with what they were expecting to do?
- who is the only Service Child in a small village Primary School?
- who has both parents in the Armed Forces and who are sometimes posted away at the same time?
- who has a parent who does not speak English at home?
- who is in need of specific support due to SEND needs but just as an EHCP is about to be put in place, moves again within the UK?
- whose parent has been killed in action and has to move out of Service Families Accommodation?
- who has moved from Scotland to England at the age of 4 and found that provision is different. Reception/ Primary 1?
- whose parent is in the Navy and spends 6 months away in a submarine with no contact with home?
- whose parent is in the SAS, so can not tell anybody including the local school?
- and so it goes on....
